Air Purifiers and Care Packages From Hysan Development Ready for Those in Need in To Kwa Wan

The 5th wave of Covid-19 in Hong Kong has caused much hardship among businesses in the city, as well as the elderlies and underprivileged members of the community.

Hysan Development can trace its roots in Causeway Bay for close to a hundred years. The Company has been standing front and center throughout the past two years providing help to its tenants, neighbours and staff members during the difficult Covid times.

It has now expanded its community care across the harbour with To Kwa Wan being its next area to support. Starting today, Hysan is working with S.K.H. Holy Carpenter Church District Elderly Community Centre to hand out care packages to elderly persons in immediate need for help. The care packages include antigen test kits, food items, face masks, sanitizers and handwarmers, which will come in handy throughout these difficult virus-plagued winter days.

Hysan also notes that many small businesses are keeping their doors open, and local community groups are also maintaining their services simply to serve their neighbours' needs. With a clean and safe environment being a key element both for those serving and those being served, at least 250 medical grade air purifiers will be donated by Hysan to these service providers. Aurabeat, the local scientific technology company specialised in air purification, is also supporting this donation with discounts on the machines and will include extra free filters for the recipients to use. St. James' Settlement is Hysan's partner to connect and deliver the machines to those in need.

Nat, a noodle shop owner who is one of the recipients of the air purifiers, says, "The pandemic has not only affected the businesses but also brought disruption to the public's normal lives. We and some others insist on keeping our doors open during Covid-19 and hope that the neighbourhood will not come to a standstill. Mutual support is the right way to defeat the pandemic. Thank you Hysan for your help!"

"Hysan's founding Lee family and its businesses have been a major part of Hong Kong's community development in the last 100 years," says Mr. Ricky Lui, Hysan's Executive Director and Chief Operating Officer. "Hysan continues to contribute to its neighbours. This time, we have noticed the needs of the community in To Kwa Wan, especially those of the elderlies and small businesses, as well as front line social services in the area. We hope to extend our care to this community. We are very happy to partner with Holy Carpenter and St. James' Settlement to give directly to those in need. We would also like to thank Aurabeat for their support in this campaign. Other businesses like Hung Fook Tong, SaSa International, Foodlink Foundation, as well as Lee Hysan Foundation also provided timely help to make this campaign possible. We are most grateful."

Hysan is ready to serve the community beyond this round of Covid help and will provide further help in practical ways in the weeks and months to come.
